

I listen to K-Love Radio based out of Denver Colorado (91.1 FM) and I feel that they do a great service to my community. They provide safe, encouraging music that children (and anyone else for that matter) can listen to without being subjected to objectional commentary or inappropriate commercials. I would hope that K-Love would not be displaced by a LPFM broadcaster who may provide the type of radio programming that wouldn't be as beneficial to the community. I believe that what K-Love offers the community is very much in the public interest because there aren't very many stations out there that have such a message of hope and even allow for people who might need someone to talk to to call in and talk with a pastor about whatever issue they may be facing. I think any station that offers hope and good music is very beneficial to us all.
